BLACKHISTORYMONTH
BLACK OWNED BUSINESS

the Honey Pot company

After suffering from a bacterial infection for months without relief (and a dream visit from an ancestor), Honey Pot Co. founder Bea Dixon finally found her answer – she'd heal herself by creating a feminine care brand using the power of herbs. Honey Pot products are made with ingredients from the earth, meaning no toxins, artificial fragrance, or anything synthetic. They're clinically tested, gynecologist approved, and also recyclable and cruelty-free. Honey Pot also gives back – two percent of sales annually is donated to charitable organizations that provide access, connect, kindness, and education to women across the globe. The Co-op carries a wide array of menstrual and feminine care products, which can be found in the Wellness Department. Learn more at thehoneypot.com
